There are plenty of medical dramas out there right now, even though the big one (ER) just ended. In comes Hawthorne, a medical show with a slight twist in that you will rarely see the doctors saving lives. This one shows the hospital from another view point, the nurses. Usually you see them in the shadows of the doctors; taking orders and what not. Not in this universe. Here, they appear to be the ones in charge and the doctors are portrayed as somewhat lazy and incompetent.
