So, despite this set being relatively pointless in the sea of complete series multiple-DVD box sets that are coming out this Fall and winter, that, ultimately, is the joke, is it not? Seinfeld claimed to be the show about nothing but it was really about a bunch of friends in New York living in various apartment, hanging out at a routine place and going to work. If that is what nothing is, then Friends also fits that bill and so does a slew of other shows that have come and gone. But, Family Guy? This is truly the show about nothing.
