

Kevin James to become a Zookeeper

Kevin James has his work cutout for him. The former TV star is following up his hugely successful film Paul Blart: Mall Cop with 2 movies on the horizon. The first, announced early this week [1], is an Untitled Chris Rock/Adam Sandler comedy. For the second, he is leaving the comfort of the Sony banner to star in Zookeeper.

Though the movie is not in conjunction with Sony, it is still being produced by Happy Madison, which is run by James' BFF Adam Sandler.

Zookeeper centers on, what else, a lonely zookeeper who decided to leave his job because he can't meet a girl, leading to an intervention led by the zoo animals themselves.
