War time is never easy but when the war is spread across the entire world and the enemy is one from another planet the term war no longer exists. Survival is the key term now for Earth and it's people as the aliens known as the Espheni begin to use a more brutal tactic as they fight the human race. What little resistance there is have now been separated and put into prisoner camps to keep them subdued. Hope still lives in the Mason family as the father Tom Mason (played by Noah Wyle) tries to get the 2nd Mass group to the new capital of Charleston. Arriving at the capital the group believe all will be well but they quickly find out that nothing is well in this new world that's become a battle field between the Humans, Espheni, and the new alien race the Volm and the winner will get the Earth.
